

Greater Cincinnati Wild Ones, a local chapter of Wild Ones, Natural Landscapers, Ltd., is a not-for-profit environmental education and advocacy organization. We advocate for:

Native Plants in Natural Landscapes

Using Ecologically sound Practices

Preserving & Restoring Native Plant Communities

The Conservation of Biodiversity

Promoting Environmental Education

We have supported this mission for over 10 years in the Greater Cincinnati area by providing monthly education programs or field trips designed to meet the needs of the native plant enthusiast at any level. These events are free, informative, and open to anyone with an interest in learning more about native plants in natural landscapes. We are involved in several restoration projects, including a plot at Sooty Acres, home of the Civic Garden Center. We sponsor the annual Midwest Native Plant Conference, a state-wide event. We hope you will journey with us and become part of this great educational and advocacy group for native plants and sustainable landscaping.
